

Editing Intern - Keep Your Fellow Interns On Their Toes

Project Title	Editing Intern - Keep Your Fellow Interns On Their Toes
Project Summary	Review blog posts and other writings submitted by fellow interns and make edits as necessary before submitting them to our team for final review and publishing on our VAntage Point blog http://www.blogs.va.gov/VAntage/ .
Country	United States

Project Description

If you are looking to take your editing skills to the next level, consider joining one of the federal government's most successful social media teams - VA's office of Digital Media Engagement. DME is a small, flexible group of professionals that value innovative ideas and out of the box thinking. As an Editing Intern you will help edit content for our VAntage Point blog <http://www.blogs.va.gov/VAntage/>. Blog posts are written and submitted by other interns, but need to be reviewed for accuracy, typos, adherence to VA style, and our Director's preferences.

You will also be editing content that will be published to millions of subscribers on our various social media channels, including Facebook, Twitter and Instagram.

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Editing and proofreading

Writing

Additional Information

To be selected for this position, you must have experience editing content for a publication, school newspaper, blog, newsletter or other communication platform and be able to demonstrate this experience for our team. Our blog is visited more than 600,000 times each month, so we are looking for people who can help ensure that every post is ready to go before it is published.

Language Requirements

None